

Andrew Rosenblatt

Boston Startup School Product Design andrew@inspiredclick.com

Experience

Boston Startup School

June 2012 - Present (2 Months) I'm currently learning how to work in startup companies. More specifically thinking about how to design products that people can connect with and have a story around them.

Founder at Inspired Click, LLC

March 2008 - Present (4 years 1 month) Designing and implementing mobile and web based applications.

Co-Founder & Technical Lead at HereHello, LLC

May 2011 - September 2011 (5 months)

A new dating service based around events that introduces people. I was responsible for thinking about product design and implementation for version 1.0.

Wood Shop Supervisor at The Game of Village, INC

June 2006 - August 2009 (3 years 3 months)

The Game of Village is a 5-week-summer camp where children ages 8 to 14 build a miniature village on the scale of 1:24. The mini village is a simulation of the real world complete with a government, banking system, and all the facets of a real town. My job as wood shop coordinator varied from working with children, keeping campers and counselors safe, maintaining equipment, and ordering supplies.

Skills & Expertise

Objective-C, Server Architecture, Information Architecture, Microsoft Office, Java, JavaScript, jQuery, MySQL, SQLite, Photoshop, HTML5, Advanced CSS, MongoDB, Linux, Mac OS X, Apache, Nodejs, JSON, PHP, & Python

Education

Wheaton College (MA)

Bachelor of Arts (BA), Social Psychology, 2008 - 2012 Activities and Societies: Equestrian Team

Souhegan High School

High School Degree, 2005 - 2008

Honors and Awards

Captain of Wheaton Equestrian Team, 2010-2012